

Annual Food & Wine Paring Event

Wednesday, May 16, 2007, 7:00 PM

Clifford's Restaurant

Our May 16, 2007 meeting will be the annual Food & Wine Paring event. Please note that this meeting will occur one week later than our normal, second Wednesday of the month, meeting date. Every year the Food & Wine Pairing program is attended by more members than any other. And why not? It's always a lot of fun, informative and a real bargain compared to similar events produced elsewhere. This year will be no exception.

Tim Harty, who has been a WVA member for over a year now, and currently in the process of writing a book on wine targeting the novice wine consumer, will present the program this year. Tim and two friends who have chef backgrounds have created food & wine paring programs for other groups in the past. Expect the usual variety of wines to taste along with a combination of individual food and specially prepared food samples. Tim will give his unique perspective and observations about the good and not as good wine and food sample combinations. He asks that each member bring four wine glasses for the tasting. The cost of the program will be the same as last year, which is the same for members and their guests.

Pre-registration is required for this special event no later than May 9.
